

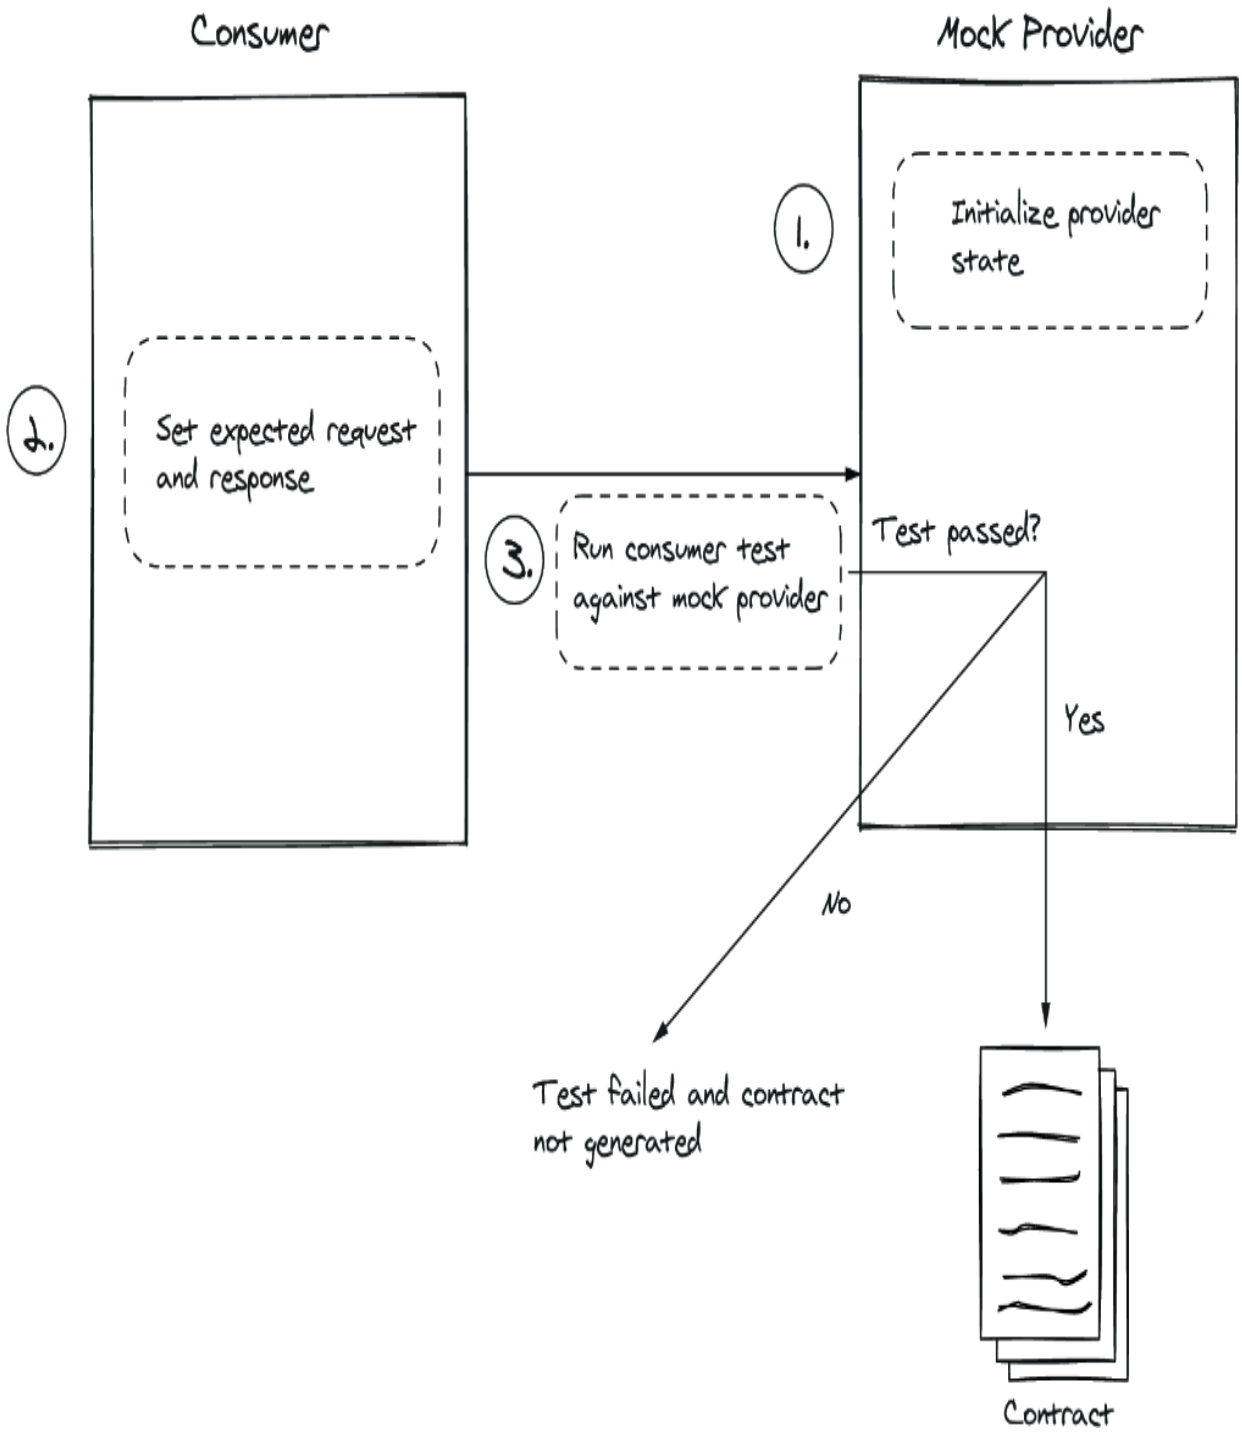

Figure 4.1 The flow of writing a consumer contract test using Pact

A mock provider will fail the consumer test if there are any errors in the interaction or expectation that you registered with the mock provider. A stub, on the other hand, will bypass this error, which totally defeats the purpose of contract testing. One of the reasons we decided to cover the