9.3.3 PactFlow user management

Once Pact Broker receives contracts, more teams will want to join the action. Therefore, new users will want to be added to PactFlow (unlimited users are included on the free plan). Many engineers using PactFlow probably won't interact with Pact Broker regularly, as they will use Pact through their CI pipeline via the Pact Broker CLI. For the CI pipeline, a system account should be set up to interact with Pact Broker, as shown in figure 9.11.

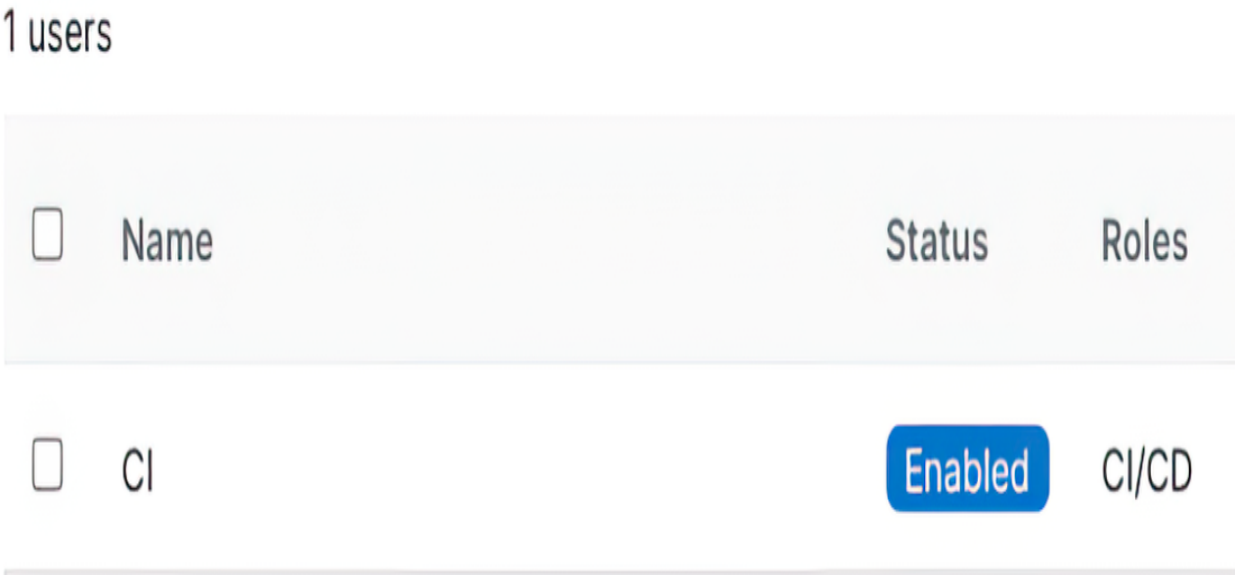

Figure 9.11 PactFlow system account set up for CI to interact with Pact Broker

Users can be set up for tech leads or developers involved in the release process. Another option PactFlow offers is SSO—including GitHub, Google, and Microsoft—which can provide users with on-demand access to Pact Broker. To invite users by email, navigate to the settings, and choose the Users option from the left menu. Select Invite New Users, and enter their name and email, as shown in figure 9.12.