test automation pyramid. By the time these problems are discovered, they have already been deployed to an integrated environment, making them more challenging to rectify. This may also block other teams especially if they are also using the shared integrated environment for other testing purposes.