

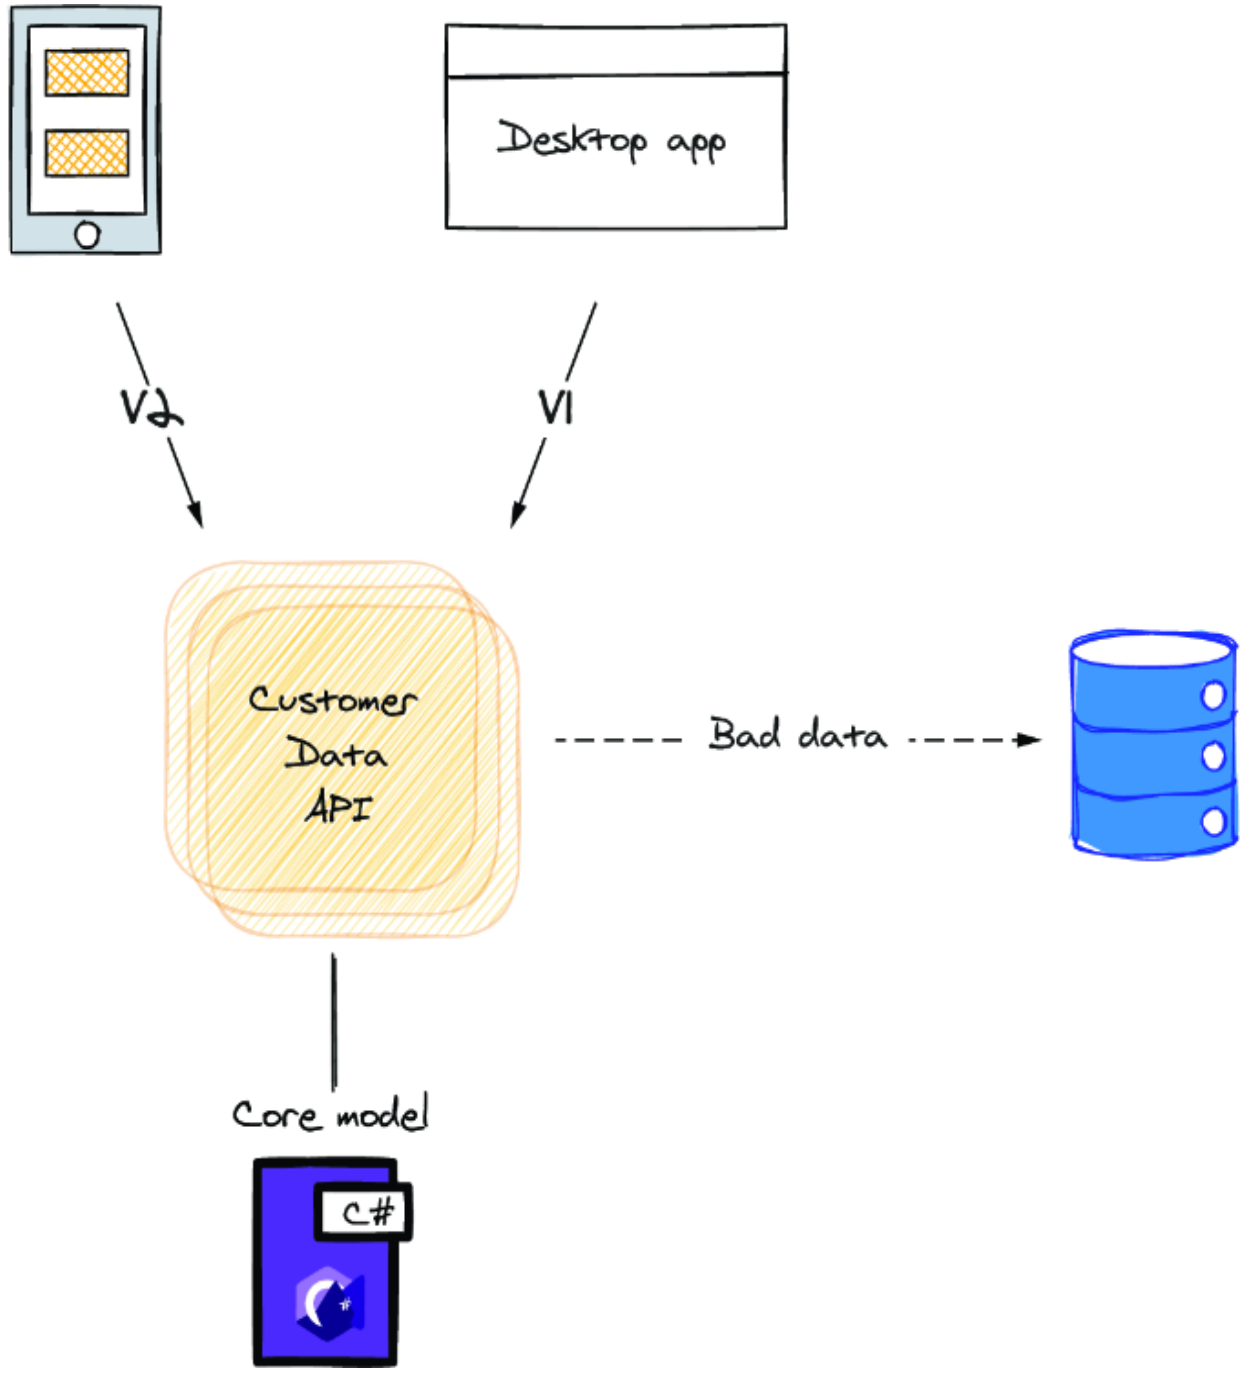

Figure 3.4 The mobile application consumes customer data API version 2, and the desktop application consumes customer data API version 1. The customer data API uses the core C# model, causing bad data in the customer database.

This scenario signifies the importance of understanding all your consumers, especially those who can't quickly fix problems when they occur. In summary, a broker stores contracts centrally for consumers and