By working through this project, you've gained experience with Python's foundational tools that will be useful in more complex projects down the road. Keep experimenting and building on this knowledge!