- Knative offers such a great developer experience that it’s becoming the de facto abstraction when deploying workloads on Kubernetes, not only for serverless but also for more standard containerized applications.