Acknowledgments

Thanks to Jeremy Ashkenas for creating CoffeeScript. Thanks to Michael Stephens at Manning for picking up a book on CoffeeScript, and to my editors at Manning—Bert Bates, James Hatheway, Jennifer Stout, and Renae Gregoire—who worked with me at various stages of manuscript development. Thanks also to Kevin Sullivan, Linda Recktenwald, Andy Carroll, Katie Tennant, and Mary Piergies, as well as technical proofreader Doug Warren, who worked with me during production—I was very impressed. Finally, thanks to publisher Marjan Bace for having patience with a book that took much longer to complete than anybody had initially expected.

Thanks to all the family, friends, and colleagues who read and provided feedback on early drafts. Thanks to the ThoughtWorks Sydney office for their patience with me while I balanced consulting with authoring.

Thanks to Nick Marino for the illustrations that brought Agtron and Scruffy to life, and for making sense of my sometimes-bizarre scripts.

Thanks also to the MEAP readers who provided feedback on the chapters as they were being written, and to the following reviewers who read the chapters at various stages during the development of the manuscript: Andrew Broman, Brett Veenstra, Carl Witty, Carlos Santiago, Cleland Early, Daniel Bretoi, David Hunter, Guy Mackenzie, Ian Phillips, Jeff Foster, John Shea, Julian Parry, Ken Chien, Logan Johnson, Musannif Zahir, Olivier Broqueville, Peter Fries, Phily Austria, Robert Henley, and Sergey Seletskyy, and to Tim Moore and Mikkel Bergmann (who provided many important insights).

Finally, a special thanks to those who had to stand living with me while I wrote: thanks to Kandy and to Leigh.