The task isn't very useful yet. Here's a build task that compiles the CoffeeScript files in the application, puts the compiled JavaScript into a compiled folder, and logs `Build complete` to the console when it's finished:

Now when you invoke `cake build`, the build is executed:

```
> cake build
Build complete
```

The compiled JavaScript files for all of your CoffeeScript files are now in the compiled folder: